

Name _____

Date _____

Idioms

An idiom is a colorful and fun way to say something. Usually, a few words combine to make an idiom. The words, when used together, mean something different from what the words mean by themselves.

Example:

The idiom "at face value" means "what something first seems to be."

Draw lines to match the idioms with the sentences.

1. John stayed home because he was feeling _____.

• break the ice

2. The teacher told a joke to _____ before starting the lesson.

• spill the beans

3. Our customers are happy because we always _____.

• hit the nail on the head

4. I accidentally _____ about the surprise party, and now everyone knows.

• under the weather

5. Maria _____ when she said the movie was too long.

• deliver the goods

Name _____

Date _____

Idioms – Answer Key

An idiom is a colorful and fun way to say something. Usually, a few words combine to make an idiom. The words, when used together, mean something different from what the words mean by themselves.

Example:

The idiom "at face value" means "what something first seems to be."

Draw lines to match the idioms with the sentences.

1. John stayed home because he was feeling _____.

2. The teacher told a joke to _____ before starting the lesson.

3. Our customers are happy because we always _____.

4. I accidentally _____ about the surprise party, and now everyone knows.

5. Maria _____ when she said the movie was too long.

break the ice

spill the beans

hit the nail on the head

under the weather

deliver the goods