

Name _____

Date _____

Possessive Adjectives and Pronouns

Possessive adjectives (e.g., my, your, his, her, its, our, their) and possessive pronouns (e.g., mine, yours, his, hers, ours, theirs) are used to show ownership or belonging.

Fill in the blanks with the correct possessive adjective or possessive pronoun.

1. The team lost _____ captain, but they didn't lose _____ determination to win the next game.
2. Neither the students nor the teacher brought _____ books to the library today.
3. Sarah and I finished _____ homework, but I think _____ answers might be wrong.
4. The flock of birds flew away, leaving _____ feathers scattered across the field.
5. The committee is preparing _____ report, and they are confident _____ conclusions will be well-received.
6. Both my parents shared _____ stories about their childhood, and I loved every single one of _____.
7. The dog wagged _____ tail excitedly when it saw the children playing with _____ ball.
8. The group of tourists left _____ guidebook on the table, but they took _____ maps with them.
9. My friend, who loves animals, has a pet rabbit. _____ favorite activity is feeding _____ carrots.
10. The class is preparing for _____ field trip. Have they decided on _____ destination yet?

Name _____

Date _____

Possessive Adjectives and Pronouns – Answer Key

Possessive adjectives (e.g., my, your, his, her, its, our, their) and possessive pronouns (e.g., mine, yours, his, hers, ours, theirs) are used to show ownership or belonging.

Fill in the blanks with the correct possessive adjective or possessive pronoun.

1. The team lost their captain, but they didn't lose their determination to win the next game.
2. Neither the students nor the teacher brought their books to the library today.
3. Sarah and I finished our homework, but I think my answers might be wrong.
4. The flock of birds flew away, leaving its feathers scattered across the field.
5. The committee is preparing its report, and they are confident their conclusions will be well-received.
6. Both my parents shared their stories about their childhood, and I loved every single one of them.
7. The dog wagged its tail excitedly when it saw the children playing with their ball.
8. The group of tourists left their guidebook on the table, but they took their maps with them.
9. My friend, who loves animals, has a pet rabbit. Her favorite activity is feeding its carrots.
10. The class is preparing for its field trip. Have they decided on their destination yet?