Reason	Trees make the air cleaner by reducing pollution and providing fresh oxygen, creating a healthier environment for everyone.
---------------	---

Trees are important because they make the air cleaner and healthier for everyone. They help by reducing pollution and giving us fresh oxygen to breathe. For example, trees take in harmful gases, like carbon dioxide, and turn them into oxygen that we need. When there are more trees, the environment becomes safer and better for people and animals. Planting trees at school can help students have cleaner air and feel healthier every day.
