

Name _____

Date _____

Revise: Strengthen Ideas and Transitions

In the Revise stage of writing, one important step is to strengthen ideas and improve transitions. This helps make the writing clearer, more organized.

Below is a draft paragraph about justice. Read carefully and answer the questions provided.

Justice is important because it creates fairness and protects everyone's rights. It includes laws that ensure people are treated equally, no matter their race or gender. For example, schools that allow all children to learn together provide equal opportunities for success. Justice prevents unfair treatment, which can lead to conflict and harm. When people are treated fairly, they feel valued, promoting peace and understanding. That's why justice remains essential for building strong and fair communities.

1. How can the second sentence be revised to strengthen the idea of justice?

- A. Justice includes fairness for all people, regardless of their background, and provides laws to ensure equality.
- B. Justice means laws that help people, such as school rules and ways to treat students equally.
- C. Fairness and rules are important because they ensure that everyone is treated justly.
- D. Justice makes sure everyone is happy because equality is great!

Name _____

Date _____

Revise: Strengthen Ideas and Transitions – Answer Key

In the Revise stage of writing, one important step is to strengthen ideas and improve transitions. This helps make the writing clearer, more organized.

Below is a draft paragraph about justice. Read carefully and answer the questions provided.

Justice is important because it creates fairness and protects everyone's rights. It includes laws that ensure people are treated equally, no matter their race or gender. For example, schools that allow all children to learn together provide equal opportunities for success. Justice prevents unfair treatment, which can lead to conflict and harm. When people are treated fairly, they feel valued, promoting peace and understanding. That's why justice remains essential for building strong and fair communities.

1. How can the second sentence be revised to strengthen the idea of justice?

- ☒ A. Justice includes fairness for all people, regardless of their background, and provides laws to ensure equality.
- B. Justice means laws that help people, such as school rules and ways to treat students equally.
- C. Fairness and rules are important because they ensure that everyone is treated justly.
- D. Justice makes sure everyone is happy because equality is great!