

Name _____

Date _____

Make Text-to-Self Connections

When we make connections, we thinking about how a story is like our own life, another story we know, or something in the world.

Example:

If you read a story about a boy and his dog, you might think about your own pet.

Read the passage and choose the correct answer.

Mia read a book about a bear who loved honey. The bear worked hard to collect honey from the trees. He shared the honey with his friends. Mia smiled because she also likes to share treats with her friends.

1. How is Mia like the bear?

- A. She likes honey.
- B. She likes to share with her friends.

2. What could this story remind you of?

- A. A story about my friends sharing snacks.
- B. A story about space and planets.

Name _____

Date _____

Make Text-to-Self Connections – Answer Key

When we make connections, we thinking about how a story is like our own life, another story we know, or something in the world.

Example:

If you read a story about a boy and his dog, you might think about your own pet.

Read the passage and choose the correct answer.

Mia read a book about a bear who loved honey. The bear worked hard to collect honey from the trees. He shared the honey with his friends. Mia smiled because she also likes to share treats with her friends.

1. How is Mia like the bear?

A. She likes honey.

☒ B. She likes to share with her friends.

2. What could this story remind you of?

☒ A. A story about my friends sharing snacks.

B. A story about space and planets.