To visualize means to make a picture in your mind while you read. When you read words about people, places, or actions, you can imagine what they look like. This helps you understand the story better.

Fill in the five senses chart and draw a picture in the middle.

The air was bright and sunny. The ground felt warm under bare feet. Waves rolled and crashed nearby, sending white foam drifting upward. Birds flew overhead, calling to each other in the open sky. A salty smell lingered, and if you licked your lips, you could taste a hint of salt carried by the breeze.

 Sun, waves, Birds in the sky		 It smelt salty.
 The sounds of wave and birds		 It tasted salty.
		 The ground felt warm.
