

Name _____

Date _____

"Be" and "Have" in Present Tense

The verbs "be" and "have" are two of the most important verbs in English. They are called helping verbs or auxiliary verbs because they can help other verbs, but they can also stand alone as main verbs.

Example:

I have three coins. She has five coins.

Underline the correct form of the verb "be" for each sentence.

1. I (am/is/are) seven years old.
2. The cat (am/is/are) sleeping.
3. We (am/is/are) going to the park.
4. You (am/is/are) my best friend.

Underline the correct form of the verb "have" for each sentence.

1. I (have/has) a new backpack.
2. She (have/has) brown hair.
3. They (have/has) two pets.
4. The dog (have/has) a long tail.

Name _____

Date _____

“Be” and “Have” in Present Tense – Answer Key

The verbs "be" and "have" are two of the most important verbs in English. They are called helping verbs or auxiliary verbs because they can help other verbs, but they can also stand alone as main verbs.

Example:

I have three coins. She has five coins.

Underline the correct form of the verb "be" for each sentence.

1. I (am/is/are) seven years old.
2. The cat (am/is/are) sleeping.
3. We (am/is/are) going to the park.
4. You (am/is/are) my best friend.

Circle the correct form of the verb "have" for each sentence.

1. I (have/has) a new backpack.
2. She (have/has) brown hair.
3. They (have/has) two pets.
4. The dog (have/has) a long tail.